Welcome to South Carolina Agritourism!

Looking for a family-friendly outing that takes you outdoors and leaves you with a better understanding of where your food comes from? Interested in exploring rural South Carolina and learning about life on farms, ranches, and other agricultural settings? Agritourism happens year-round and offers memorable experience, including:

Pick-your-own fruit	Gardening
Farm Tours	Horseback riding
Animal displays and demonstrations	Military reenactments
ATV and bike trails	Skeet shooting
Bird watching	Wine tastings
Disc golf	Birthday and wedding parties
Farm to table meals	Museums
Farm work experience	Hayrides
Fishing	Pumpkin patches
Photography	Corn mazes

South Carolina is home to many agritourism sites that are open for the public to enjoy. Farms are popular with families and with all kinds of groups: school, church, youth, corporate, and special needs. From complicated corn mazes to beautiful scenery, agritourism has something to offer people of all ages.

South Carolina Agritourism Association

Farms aren't just for food any more. The South Carolina Agritourism Association (SCAA) helps farmers develop and implement strategies for marketing and selling "the farm experience" to an ever-growing audience of interested visitors. SCAA offers agritourism farmers the opportunity to network with peers, share best practices, and find answers to challenges like admission tax and liability insurance. Created by the South Carolina Department of Agriculture, SCAA helps its members attract tourists to the more rural areas of the state and capitalize on the strong local food movement and the opportunity to put a price tag on agritourism attractions.
